Växjö – “The Greenest City in Europe” and winner of the European Green Leaf Award 2018

Växjö, the host city of the XIV UBC General Conference, is an exciting combination of idyllic small town, university town and centre of entertainment – a strong regional centre in the middle of the south of Sweden. Businesses, the arenas, the university, environmental work and above all the city’s energy and ambitious spirit are all growing fast.

– Växjö is honored to host the XIV UBC General Conference. Mayors and local leaders are part of the solution for an open and sustainable Baltic Sea Region, and we as leaders must use our local power for a positive development of the entire region. Our mission goes beyond our city borders, emphasizes Lord Mayor of Växjö Bo Frank.

Växjö has a growth rate comparable to Sweden’s major cities and a renowned environmental policy.

– Sustainability is high on the agenda in Växjö and we have a long tradition on working with other actors in our Municipality and the world to develop our city. Ten years ago, our achievements gave us the reputation of being ‘The Greenest City in Europe’ and a few months ago, this reputation was even further strengthened when we were awarded the ‘European Green Leaf Award’ for 2018.

UBC Youth Conference emphasizes young people’s role in decision-making

Parallel to the XIV UBC General Conference, UBC Youthful Cities Commission organises a Youth Conference with over 60 participants. The Youth Conference is partly funded by EU Erasmus+ program and brings together young people from 13 cities in the Baltic Sea Region.

Purpose of the Youth Conference is to work on common issues such as participation, migration and leadership. Furthermore, the Youth Conference will interact with the UBC General Conference, as the youth participants will take part in many of the sessions in the General Conference – to possibly place a youth perspective on the agenda. In addition, the purpose of the Youth Conference is to bring young people from around the region together to network and to share ideas and experiences.

During a briefing session on Wednesday 25 October, the youth are presented with tasks, issues or problems from UBC Commissions. Young people will then have 24 hours to come up with comments, views or solutions to them. These will be presented on the morning of Thursday 26 October in the plenary session “Listening to the Voices of Tomorrow”.
