Poland – Pomorskie – Gdynia

Gdynia owes its existence and dynamic development to its strategic location on the maps of Poland and Europe. It is here where the sea corridors leading from Scandinavia, Western Europe and the more distant parts of the world meet with the transport routes to the South. Following the Baltic coast through Gdynia lies also a route that links Western Europe with the Baltic rim nations.

Gdynia

Gdynia's distinguishing feature is the proximity of its downtown area and the sea. The city's centre lies at the foot of the Gulf of Gdańsk.

In less than a few minutes, at a leisurely pace, one can leave the noisy and busy streets of Świętojańska, 10 Lutego or Starowiejska and find oneself on a pier leading into the sea – the Southern Pier.

Although Gdynia is a young city it certainly has her own style. The city was built from scratch over the span of the late 1920s and early 1930s of the previous century. Gdynia's architecture and urban development of the port, the downtown and residential districts is record of the artistic trends in Europe's modernism style. "Gdynia Modernism" is distinguished by modern structures, functionality, and the use of marine and ship-related details.

Gdynia is a multi-cultural city.

This can be seen when tasting dishes from different countries – starting with traditional Polish cuisine and ending up with exotic tastes from the furthest corners of the world. Gdynia's Culinary Route is one idea how to visit the city and sample its tastes.

Gdynia certainly lives up to the name of the Sailing Capital of Poland.

Many times it has hosted international sailing events, welcomed the largest and most beautiful tall-ships from all over the world. Here the most important regattas are organized.
